

DRIVING REAL BUSINESS RESULTS

The International Coach Federation performed a global coaching study in which it was reported that the median company return from coaching was 700% of the initial investment.

Companies that hire executive coaches for their executives and other top managers are making an investment that brings about a significant return on investment.

Executive Coaching unlocks the potential and increases the productivity of executives and other managers at every level who you want to develop. Organizations with executives and other managers who receive Results Driven Executive Coaching see a great return on investment.

RDL's executive coaching brings increased productivity and greater levels of company success with increases in revenue, cash flow, and a reduction in costs. It also helps those being coached to improve their individual work performances in alignment with achieving the employer's company vision and goals.

THE JOB OF A COACH DIFFERS FROM;

Consultants as they give the answers

Mentors as they share their experiences, having been there and done that;

Therapists as they provide therapy for the attempted remediation of a mental health problem.

RESULTS-DRIVEN EXECUTIVE COACHING

Results-Driven Executive Coaching involves one-to-one, interactive dynamics between a RDSM Executive Coach and executives and other managers who have the potential to make a high level of impact on their organizations.

Our Executive Coaching unlocks the potential of those being coached and increases their productivity. It greatly speeds up the level of productivity for executives, top-level managers, high potential managers being groomed to grow, and family member managers at every level.

If used in conjunction with an RDSM training program, coaching both reinforces what is learned in the training program and helps to apply it.

Results-Driven Executive Coaching is customized to adapt to the needs of both the organization and the person being coached.
